Message from the Editor

Dear Readers,

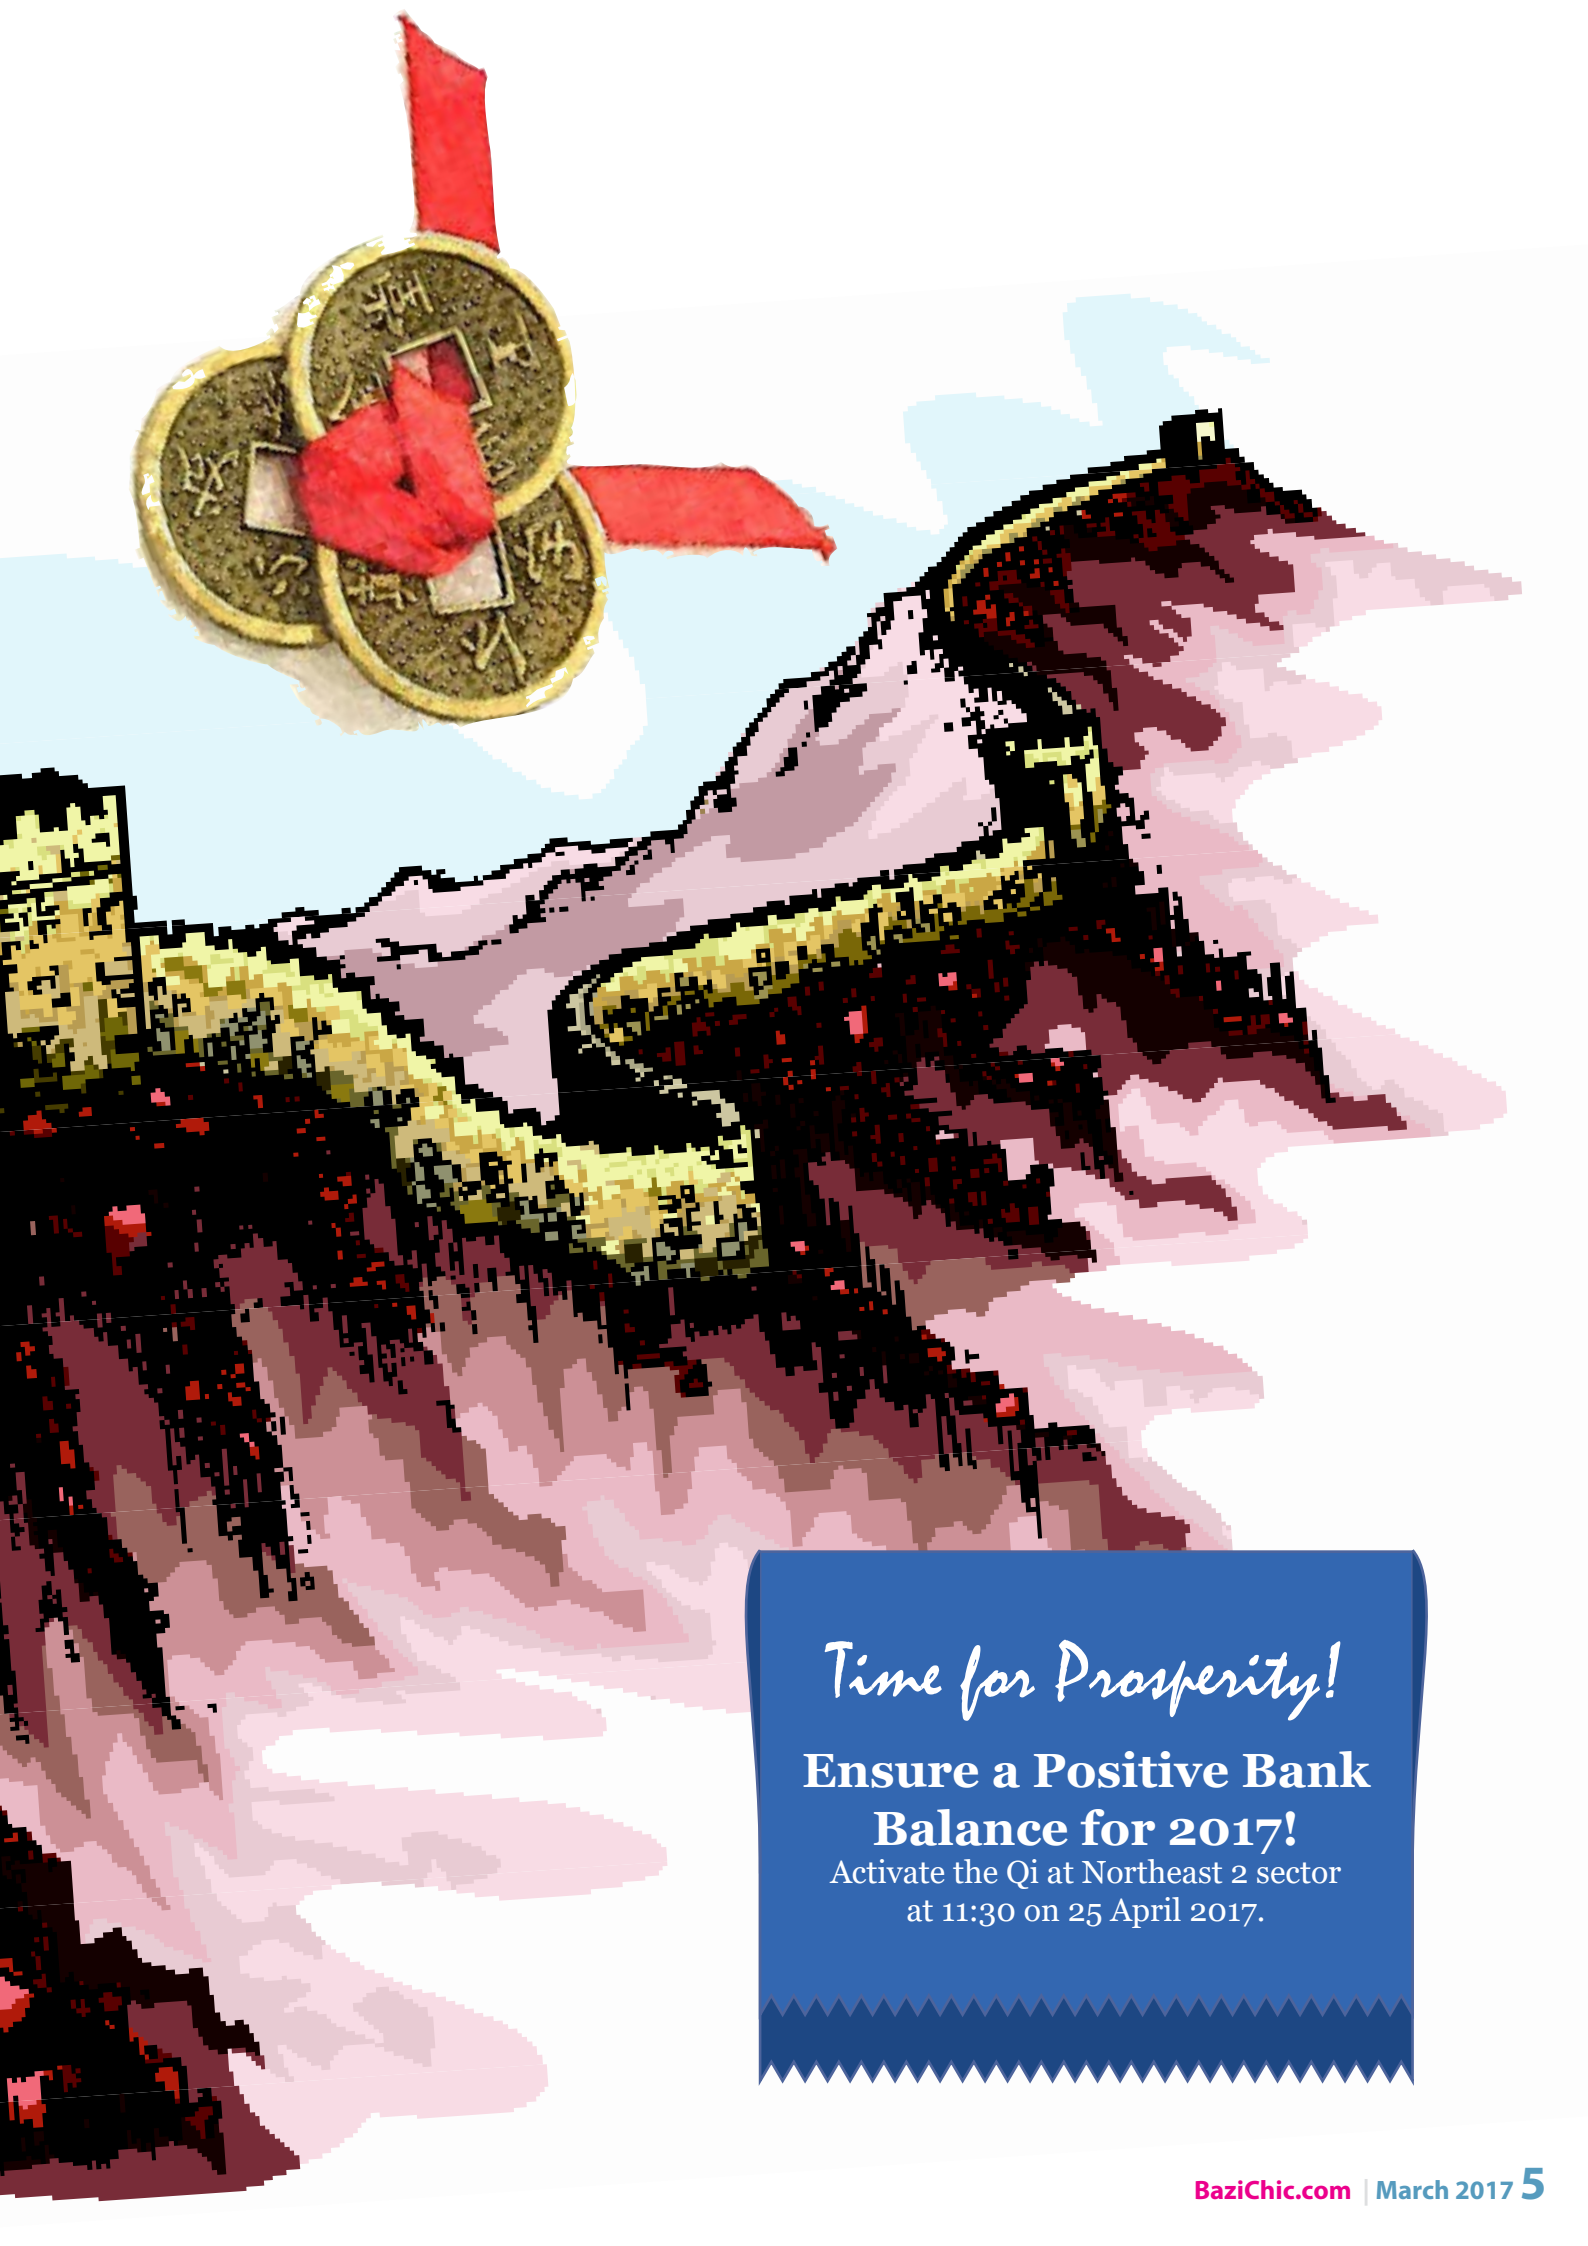

"I think the universe is trying to tell me something." Have you ever heard anyone say that? I believe the universe does try to tell you things. Sometimes the message will come right when you need it - a quote appearing on your Facebook timeline or a call from friend. Sometimes, the universe is more subtle, and you'll have to work a little harder to decipher her message. Perhaps you'll have to write in your morning pages faithfully everyday, perhaps you'll need to meditate or perhaps, like Jo and the Great Wall, you need to become aware of the coincidences happening in your life and do some detective work. But the universe does speak to you. However you converse with the Universe, we wish you happy listening!

Love,

Eu Geen

Meaningful Coincidences

The Great Wall of China

Flipping through my passport, I remembered my hiking experience on the Great Wall on 28 September 2016. At that time, hiking the Great Wall had seemed just like any other vacation to me. The significance of September 2016 had not yet occurred to me. Now, I realised that September 2016 was when the Fire Rooster's Qi began to rise. Little did I know that the word "Great Wall" was to be the theme of my life at the end of 2016 while the Fire Monkey's Qi was transiting and transforming to the Fire Rooster's Qi.

First up was Donald Trump's signature policy proposal during the 2016 presidential campaign, which was the proposal to build a wall on the U.S.-Mexico border. It sparked a comparison with the Great Wall of China.

So I pulled out Emperor Qin Shi Huang's Bazi Chart, to see why these men felt the need for a wall. What I discovered was that Emperor Qin Shi Huang was not the person who began work on the Great Wall of China. The first wall was built by the state of Chu. What Emperor Qin Shi Huang did was unite the six states, and thus was able to order General Meng Tian to connect all the walls of the six states. Hence, the name "Ten-Thousand-Mile Long Wall" was born. Subsequently, the Emperors of different dynasties continued building, expanding, modifying and repairing the Great Wall. Similarly, I discovered that the American border barrier was not started by Trump. The border barrier, which was mostly fencing, was approved by Congress and signed into law by President George W. Bush in 2006. Trump is only trying to modify it into a concrete wall.

The Great Wall of China was a means of defending the land and culture from nomadic tribes, Mongol raiders and other political enemies. It was intended to keep out the bandits and barbarians. Was the Great Wall successful in protecting China from invaders? Yes and no. Success or failure really depends on whether the country has a wise ruler or otherwise. Trump's Great Wall is mostly concerned about preventing illegal immigration and keeping out the drug cartels. Will Trump's Great Wall work as intended? That is left to be seen. Interestingly both Bazi Charts favour the Earth element.

Continuing with the theme of the Great Wall popping up in my life, I noticed that Great Wall, the film was released in China on 15 December 2016. The film was directed by Zhang Yimou. He was born on 2 April 1950 at the Dragon hour. Below is his Bazi Chart.

Then I bought a really cute plant, only to be told by a friend that this was an indication that a person may be facing boundary issues. Once more, a wall reference.

Is the Universe trying to tell me something with these seemingly meaningful coincidences? Is it the sign “Yi” 易 at work? Yi signifies changes! Whatever it is, the three persons above have similar Pillars with my Bazi Chart. Maybe I should do some reflection based on their life experiences.

Pay attention to the coincidences in your life, the Universe may be sending you a message.

2017 Full Moon Calendar for Making Wishes

You've probably wished for something at some point of your life. Some wishes came true while others did not. Why is that? Did you use the wrong method? Probably not! There are so many ways of making wishes. Wishing on a shooting star, tossing pennies into a fountain, wishing on the Northern Star, or thinking of something you really want when blowing out the candles on your birthday cake. Some also wish on a full moon using the help of the Fa Qi Men Chart. There is no right or wrong way to make a wish. The important part is wishing for something that is truly meaningful to you. Something that you truly wish to have come true in your life, that you can imagine what it's like to experience the wish coming true.

Most of the time, people wish with detachment,

"I wish to strike the 20 million lottery."

"I wish I am beautiful."

"I wish to have a big house."

These wishes may be lip service, repeated because it is what society has programmed us to believe is desirable. Some may even have the dilemma of what to wish for first because they have so many wants and desires.

This brings me to a joke that has been making rounds amongst my family and friends on social media.

A Chinese man who had no wife, no children, no money, no house and a blind mother prayed fervently to God. God was moved by his prayers. He told him to make ONLY ONE request which will be granted to him.

So the Chinese man prayed and said, "God, I want my Mother to see my wife putting on diamond bangles on my daughter's arm inside my car parked in front of my mansion."

When God heard this prayer, God said to himself, "I still have a lot to learn from the Chinese."

After reading the above story, you may think, "Wow! That is such a genius way of putting all his needs, wants and desires into that ONE wish." But this is not the important part! What was important in that wish, is the positive emotions, happy atmosphere and action created in the wish. The man's wish for his mother to regain her sight was the most significant part of the wish. He could visualise what it will be like if the wish came true and could imagine being there to share the joy of his mother's vision.

In the Law of Attraction section, we talked about wishing on a full moon. This is a list of when full moons will occur in 2017:

Source: NASA

The best time to make wishes is at 01:30 on 13 March 2017. Make your wish with your back to the West. You can also make your wish at 05:30 on 13 March 2017 with your back to the Southeast. You can also make a wish following the steps outlined in the article, "Creating Your Charm in 2017" on page 33 of our previous issue.

You can also stay tuned to our Facebook page at facebook.com/Bazichic or our group page to find out about the time and direction for making a wish on the next full moon.

Negative Formations that Stealthily Trigger Feng Shui Afflictions

Living in a good Feng Shui environment simply means tapping into and harnessing positive Qi while avoiding Sha Qi. However, sometimes Sha Qi may be present in the external environment without you being aware of it. This is because some features or objects emanate negative Qi only when triggered by the changes in the annual flying stars in the sectors where they are located.

So open your Feng Shui eyes and look out for these seemingly ordinary features ubiquitous to homes and neighbourhoods around the world. In general, these objects do not pose any great negative impact. It is only when the annual inauspicious stars enter the sectors where these objects are located that afflictions will arise.

Leaking Roof

Water leaking from the roof can be problematic. It becomes Sha Qi when it occurs in a location afflicted by the annual inauspicious stars. This type of Sha Qi is called “Lin Tou Shui” (淋頭水) Sha.

Pylon

Pointy Roof

Lamp Post Cutting into House

Pylons, pointy roofs, lamp-posts, telephone poles and satellite dishes

In Feng Shui study, pylons, certain types of pointy roofs, lamp-posts, telephone poles and satellite dishes are regarded as sharp and therefore negative objects. These objects exert Sha Qi if located directly in front of the Main Door. Obviously, these objects are impossible to remove, so they are best to be avoided.

These days, with proper planning by property developers, lamp posts are often artfully placed between two houses. However, if you can still see the lamp-post cutting into the house when viewing it from within the house (see the above picture), then Sha Qi is still present. The impact of this Sha Qi can be reduced by placing a pool of water in a strategic location. However, this remedy will not completely eliminate the Sha Qi.

Gap between Buildings

The gap between two buildings that are located very close to each other can form Sha Qi too. The wind blowing through this gap becomes sharp and piercing. This creates very fierce Wind Sha Qi. If this gap points directly at your property, it will cause illness or injury to the occupants of the house.

White Tiger Sha

The term "White Tiger" refers to sharp features located at the right side of the property. This is to your right as you are standing at Main Door looking out. This Sha Qi is present only when there are negative environmental features such as pylons, lamp posts, telephone poles and satellite dishes on the right side of the property. "White Tiger" usually relates to female matters and power. Thus, women staying in this house will be more vulnerable to the negative impact.

Fire Hydrants

Fire Hydrants can be found anywhere. They are not something that can be easily removed. If the hydrant is not located right in front of the Main Door of the house or commercial lot, it is fine. If the fire hydrant is broken, it will become a source of Sha Qi.

Fire Hydrants

Peeping Tom Sha (探头峰)

Peeping Tom Sha (探头峰)

In the modern urban environment, Peeping Tom Sha appears when the neighbouring roof peeks out from behind the roof of your house. Or it could be caused by a pylon peeping out from behind the roof of your house. This formation can be found in the natural environment too. It happens when a mountain peeps out from behind another mountain. Occupants staying in this environment or property will experience robbery, theft, fraud and embezzlement. The negative impact will be especially negative when Flying Star #7 and #3 meets.

Curved Flyover

The Curved Flyover is known as the Crescent Blade Sha. It is advisable to avoid choosing a property near this curve - especially outside the C-Curve. This type of Sha Qi cannot be mitigated and the impact is negative all the time even without the annual Feng Shui affliction.

Keep these features in mind while reading about our Feng Shui cures on page 15 as some Sha Qi may be triggered without you being aware of it. Some of the negative energy may be mitigated but some cannot.

Feng Shui Cures

After attending seminars or reading books on the latest Annual Feng Shui Afflictions for 2017, most people will have the tendency to rush to apply cures to those afflicted sectors.

But should you rush to apply Feng Shui cures in your home as soon as we enter 2017? The answer is a big “NO.”

You will be better off focusing your energies on using the positive sectors rather than trying to cure the negative sectors. The negative energy may not even be there in the first place until you trigger it with activities such as hammering, renovation, drilling, digging and groundbreaking. Sometimes, external factors such as sharp features in the external environment (roofs, corners of buildings and pylons), or renovations done by neighbours, will trigger the negative sectors in your home. If you have these issues, then you may want to consider applying the Feng Shui cures.

Bright Hall

An open space known as the bright hall both inside and outside of your home is the most important element. The bright hall can dissolve “Sha Qi” resulting from Five Yellow, Illness Star #2, Bull Fight Star #3 and Robbery Star #7. Not only that, the bright hall also brings out the positive impact of these stars. That is why the annual spring cleaning is an important chore for Chinese families. We go so far as spring cleaning on an auspicious date to ensure that we can remove bad energy and spur the circulation of positive energy in the home.

So before you rush into applying any cure, why not consider spring cleaning and de-cluttering your space.

The Twelve Day Officers (which can be found in the Tong Shu calendar) can be used to assist you in general date selection for your daily activities. For important occasions such as marriage, or opening a new business, consult a professional practitioner to help you select an auspicious date that best matches your Bazi Chart.

Salt Water Cure

There are many Feng Shui cures such as using mirrors to reflect back sharp features, using a mythical Qilin to ward off negative energies and evil spirits, hanging a wind chime as an esoteric cure for noise abatement and hanging red-coloured objects. All these cures boil down to blocking or using the Five Elements to mellow down the negative impact caused by “Sha Qi.” Among all these cures, the one that I have found to have the most positive feedback is the Salt Water Cure. Although the Salt Water Cure is not part of the classical Feng Shui study, the use of salt for protection and eradication of negative energy has long been practiced in Taoism and in Chinese culture. Salt is added to bathwater to improve one’s luck. It is also used together with five grains and ritually thrown into a new house prior to the new inhabitants moving in, for protection against all sorts of bad energy. So if many say that it works, why not use it even if it is not a true classical Feng Shui practice?

The Salt Water Cure is usually used together with six coins to mitigate the negative impact of the Five Yellow and Illness Star #2. This cure only mellows down the impact, not completely remove it. This is because you cannot destroy energy, only divert it.

In 2017, the Five Yellow is located in the South sector and Illness Star #2 is in the Northwest sector. You can read more about these negative stars in the article “Avoid the Feng Shui Afflicted Sectors in 2017” in the previous issue of our magazine.

If you really have no choice but to apply a cure, follow the steps below:

1. On 31 March 2017 at 11:30 a.m., fill 3/4 of a bowl with salt. This date is not suitable for those who have the Pig sign in their Bazi Chart.
2. Place six metal objects or six Chinese I-Ching coins face up (this is the side with Chinese characters) in a circle on top of the salt.
3. Fill the bowl with water very slowly until the water is even with the top of the bowl.
4. Using a mat, tray or plate, place the bowl in the sector that you feel is in need of this Feng Shui cure.
5. Place the bowl in an open area.
6. Remove the bowl once the water has dried. If the renovation affecting your home hasn't been completed, repeat the above steps. You can reuse the bowl of salt. If the salt water begins to crystalize along the rim of the bowl, use a new bowl to repeat the above steps.
7. This mitigation can be used to mitigate Five Yellow or the Illness Star #2 as a result of a neighbour's renovation at the South or Northwest sectors of your home respectively. Continue the above mitigation until your neighbour finishes the renovation. Place the bowl inside a plastic bag once the water has dried and throw it away.
8. Do not recycle the objects and bowls used for the mitigation.

You can use the Salt Water Cure to mitigate the Robbery Star #7 too. In this method, white vinegar is added while the metal objects or I-Ching coins are not required. Follow these steps:

1. On 31 March 2017 at 11:30 a.m. fill $\frac{1}{4}$ of the bowl with salt. This date is not suitable for those who have the Pig sign in their Bazi Chart.
2. Fill $\frac{1}{4}$ of the bowl with white vinegar.
3. Fill the bowl with water very slowly until it is almost level with the top of the bowl.
4. Using a mat, tray or plate, place the bowl in the sector that you feel is in need of this Feng Shui cure.
5. Place the bowl in an open area.
6. Remove at once if it turns brownish or milky. If the renovation affecting your home hasn't been finished, repeat the above steps. If the salt water begins to crystalize along the rim of the bowl, use a new bowl and repeat the steps.
7. This mitigation can be used to mitigate the Robbery Star #7 affliction as a result of a neighbour's renovation at the Southwest sectors of your home. Continue the above mitigation until your neighbour has finished the renovation. Once complete, place the bowl and salt inside a plastic bag and throw it away.
8. Do not recycle the objects and bowls used for the mitigation.

Fire Cure

Feng Shui consultants rarely recommend the use of Fire to mitigate "Sha Qi" due to the danger of fire hazard. Instead, it is recommended to hang a red cloth over the affected area. The Fire Cure, such as burning charcoal, or smoking the house with positive essences, can mitigate the Bull Fight Star #3. Take extra precautions if you want to do this.

Another method is by placing a Himalayan salt lamp inside your home. Placing the lamp on your desk, in your living room or next to the bed is like having an open window to a natural source of fresh, clean air. Besides many health benefits, it also leaves behind positively-charged ions. In

Before you dive into all these Feng Shui cures, think first. Do you really need them? Having too many Feng Shui cures may sometimes obscure the path to success as people tend to forget that they can use the positive sectors.

The Dome-Shaped Home

These days houses come in many shapes and forms for an artistic and futuristic feel. Due to reasons of economy, the unique dome-shaped home is being re-introduced as the home of the future. The dome was first popularized as the geodesic dome in the 1940s and 1950s.

The dome-shaped home has many advantages.

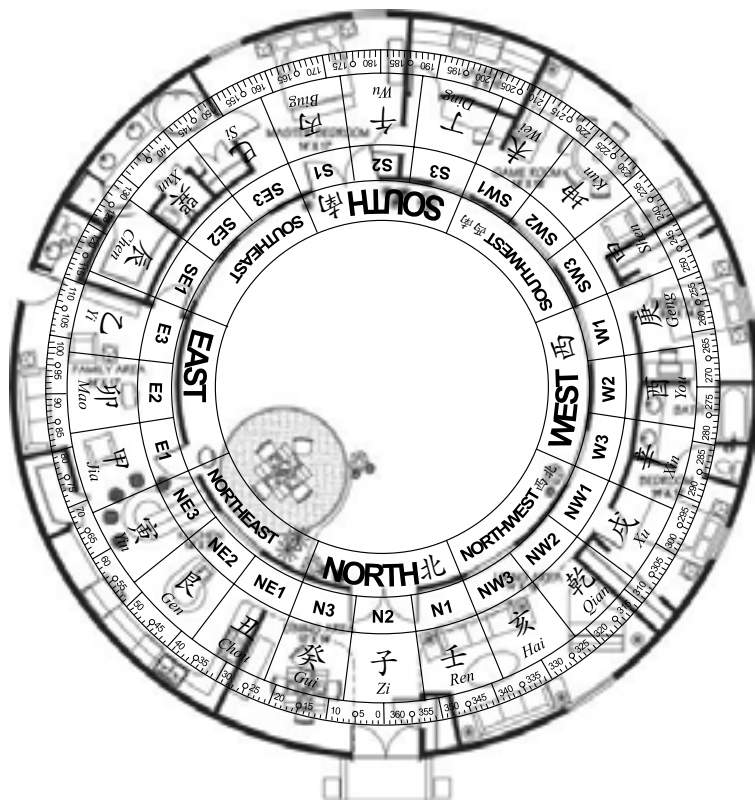

In terms of safety, domes can withstand powerful winds. It is known to be able to withstand wildfires in Arizona and California and survive direct hits from Hurricane Katrina and tornadoes in Oklahoma and Texas. Its structure can also withstand strong earthquakes. Concrete domes have been known to survive flying debris as big as cars and direct hits from bombs.

What is attractive about the dome is that it is simply the most energy-efficient home. It is the safest haven in areas with the most extreme and violent climates on the planet since exposure to cold in winter and heat in summer is reduced. Its circular shape enables hot or cold air trapped inside it to circulate smoothly. This reflects and concentrates the heat inside the house, stabilizing the temperature inside the house.

But is the dome-shaped home a good home from the Feng Shui perspective?

No missing corner

A dome-shaped home which is circular in shape, like a square-shaped house has no missing corners. Superimpose a 24-Mountains Compass (refer to the next page) on your floor plan, and you will find that there are no missing corners with this floor plan, which is good. This is important from the Feng Shui perspective. It indicates that the occupants of the house will not experience any weaknesses in the areas of health, wealth, family, love and personal or professional relationships.

Very Yang Qi

The dome shape helps the Qi to circulate within the entire home smoothly such that there will not be any stagnant energy inside the house. In fact, the Qi in a circular-shaped house will circulate around and around causing lots of energy to build-up. With the high level of Yang Qi, dome-shaped buildings work well for commercial buildings as such sports complexes, shopping malls or opera houses where lots of energy is desirable.

A dome-shaped home may be too energetic for some people. People who have emotional or mental issues or whose Bazi charts contain too much water or metal elements may not find it suitable to live in a dome-shaped house.

The dome-shaped home is more suitable for use in places that experience extremely cold weather. Out of the four seasons, winter represents the most Yin aspect in Chinese Metaphysics study. Hence, the Yang Qi in these houses will be well-balanced.

A SIMPLE INVESTMENT GUIDE

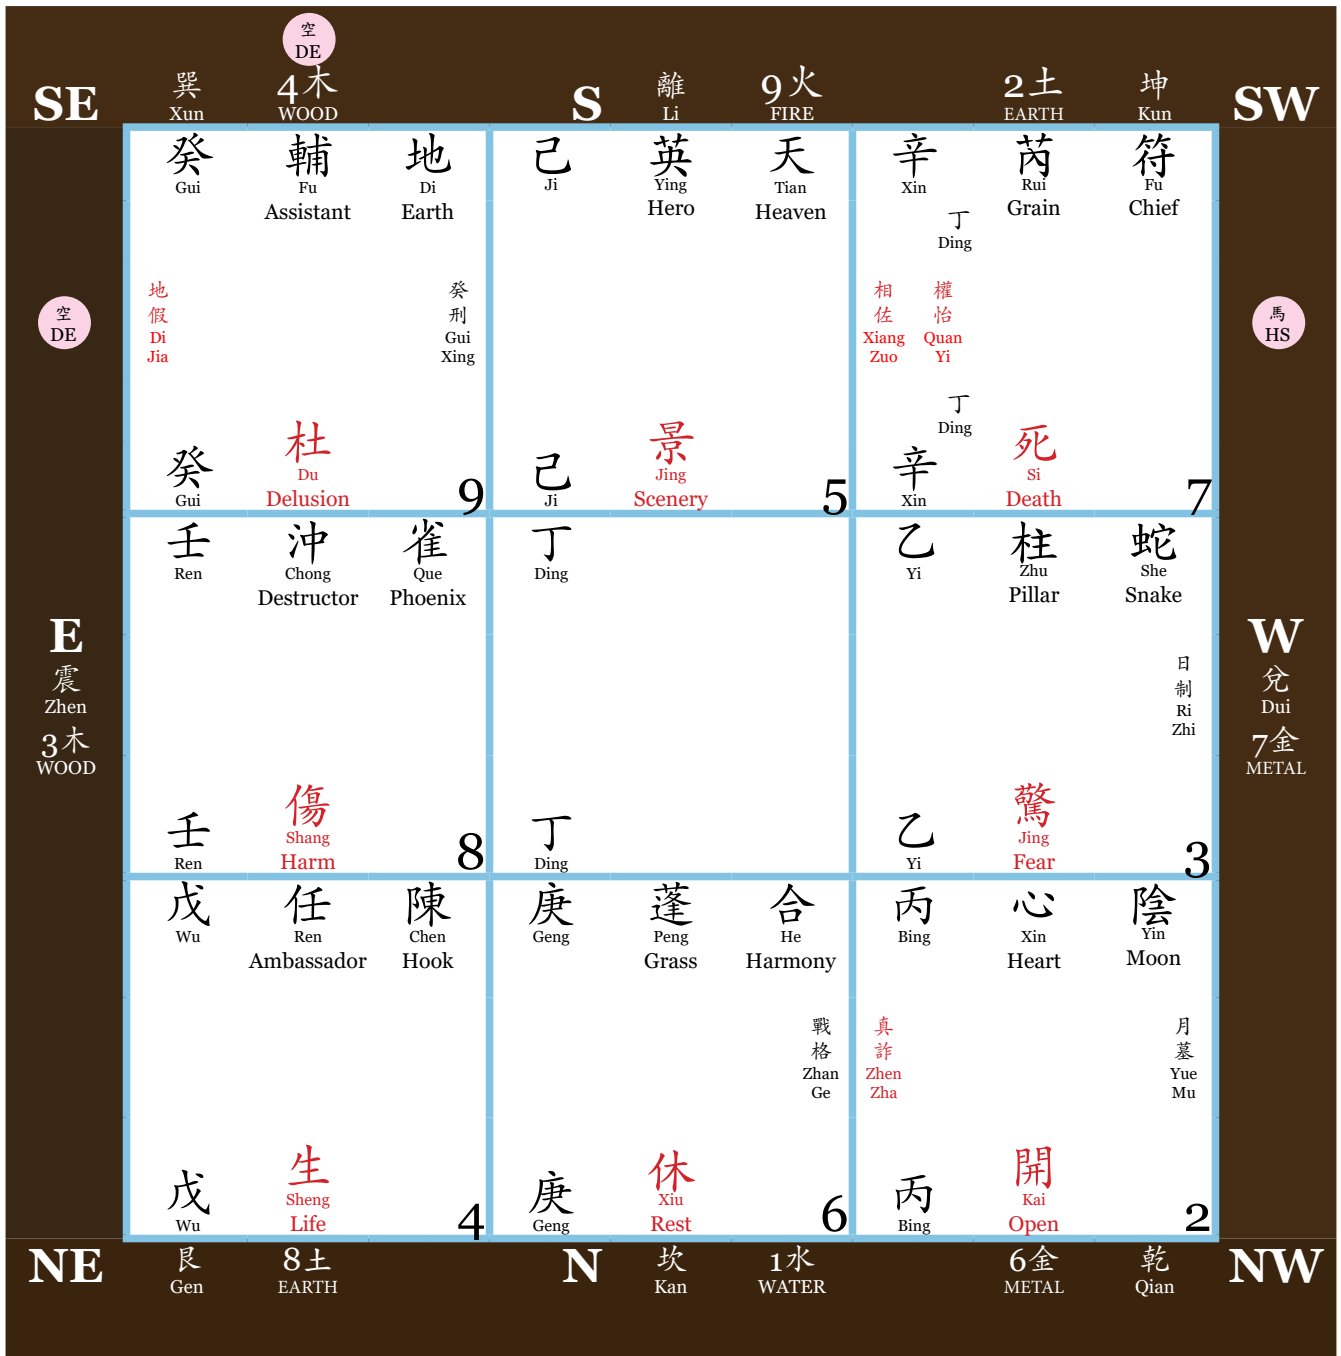

Keep in mind that proper understanding, careful study and analysis is still needed before you make any investment. In fact, the information you acquire from studying and analysing potential investment opportunities should provide further confirmation on whether you should go ahead with your investment decisions or not.

This is another case study of Qi Men Dun Jia ('QMDJ') Forecasting for investment. Let's take a look at the QMDJ chart on 8 February 2017 at 11:23 (refer to the next page), and how this chart can give you simple investment guidance. This is a Fu Yin Chart. Fu Yin represents status quo or no change. Fu Yin happens when all the Stars and Doors fall back into their original Palaces with the Heaven and Earth Stems being the same.

This chart gives you very straight forward information. The value of your investment will be stagnant or remain unchanged.

Conclusion: In such cases, if you are looking for a quick profit, then this stock is not for you. For dividend stocks, this chart is considered okay for investment if other information about the company is positive.

Riding the Dragon's Back

The story begins...

As I walked my legs began to feel heavier and heavier. It was hard to even lift my leg to take another step forward. My body bowed down under the heavy stone on my back. I craned my neck to see if I have arrived at my destination, but it was still so far away. I opened my mouth to gasp for some air as I can't seem to breathe. I knew that my life was slowly slipping away. My legs wobbled as I tried to take another step. My vision blurred and I could feel that I was falling. I closed my eyes and smiled. I can rest now. Far away, at the back of my mind, a vision came to me. I saw a woman crying so painfully that my heart ached. However, I had no more strength to contemplate further as darkness completely swept over me.

A woman arrives at the border of China where heavy construction was taking place. She had travelled many miles to come here in search of her husband. He was one of the many sent here to build the 10,000-li wall. When she arrived she discovered that her husband had passed away and was buried within the wall. She howled bitter tears. Coincidentally, it was raining heavily and a lightning strike caused the collapse of the part of the wall where her husband was buried. She was able to locate her husband's remains and give him a proper burial.

Many years later...

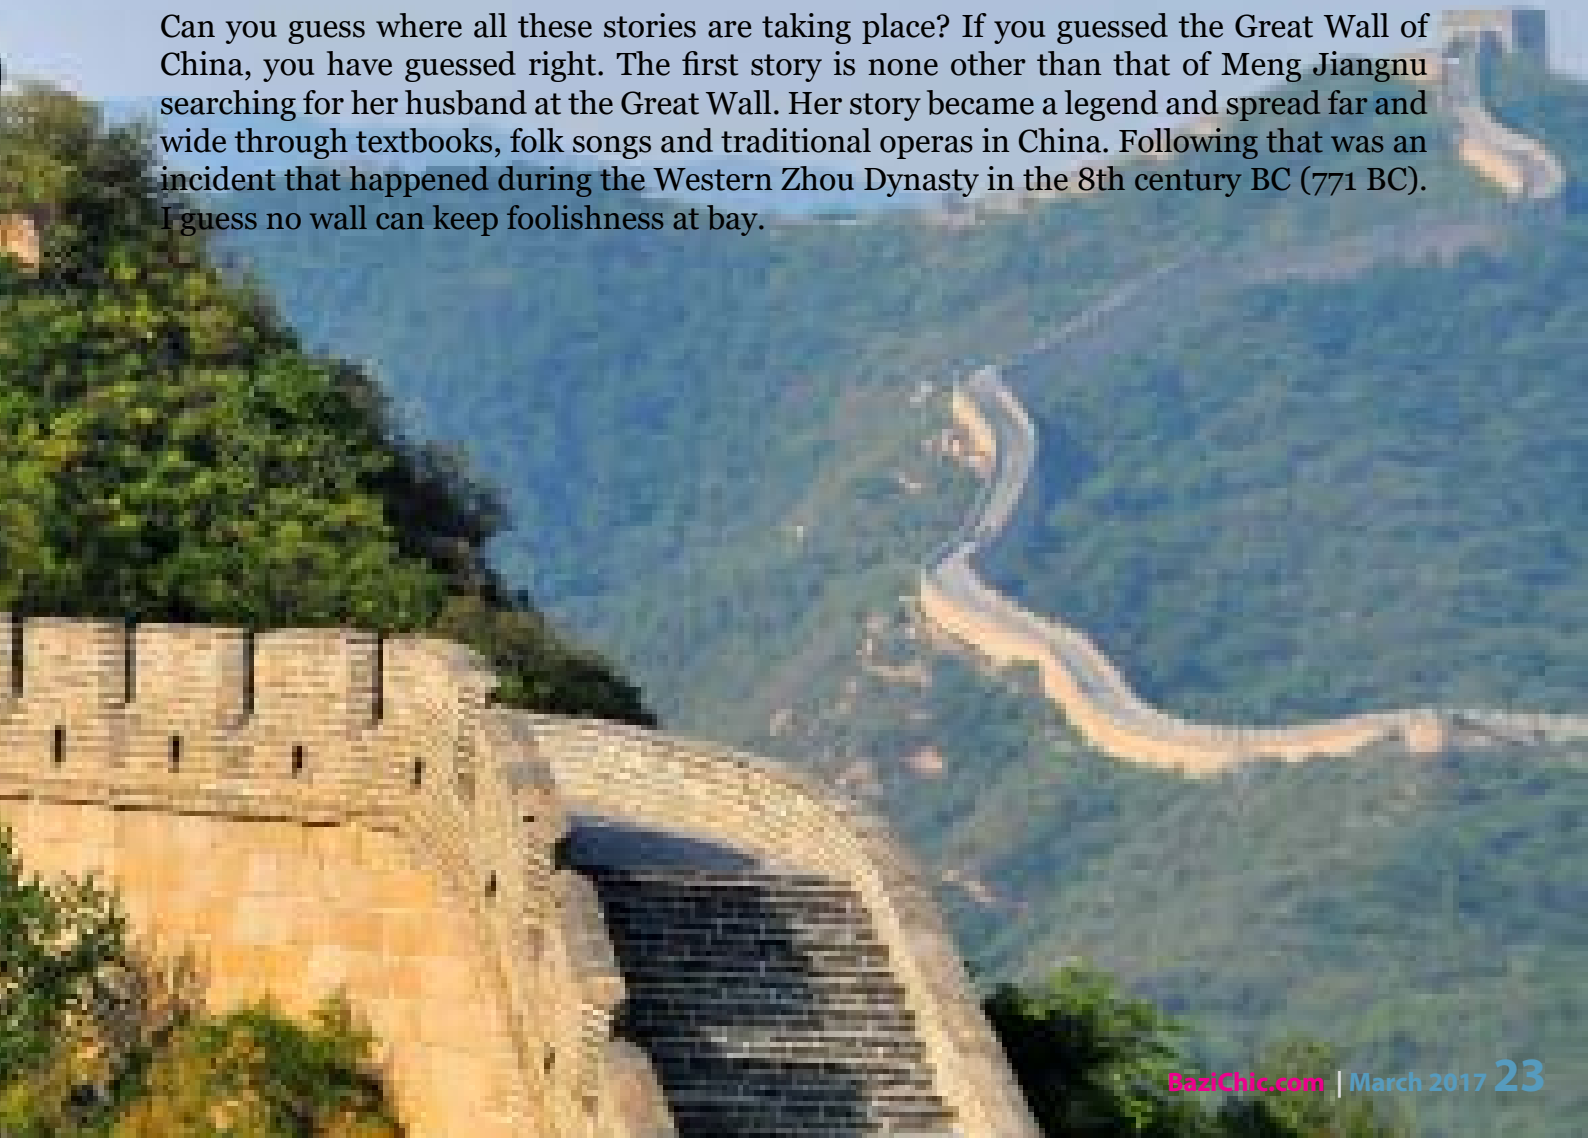

During the Western Zhou Dynasty, King Zhou secretly ordered a fire to be lit at the beacon tower. The King's subjects seeing the burning flames in the tower thought their country was being attacked. The country quickly descended into chaos. Queen Bao Si seeing the chaotic situation, broke into laughter. King Zhou had played a prank on his subjects to please his Queen. Not long after, Western Zhou was invaded. The King lit the fires at the beacon towers again. No soldier came to the kingdom's defence because they thought he was trying to fool them again. This saw the end of the Western Zhou Dynasty.

Present day...

Looking up, the cable car looked very small as it made its way up to the top of the mountain. When the cable car reached the top, iPhones were pulled out of pockets and bags and quickly put to use to capture the majestic view of the ruins stretching across the top of the mountains. There didn't seem to be any end to the ruins that stretched across the mountainous terrain.

Can you guess where all these stories are taking place? If you guessed the Great Wall of China, you have guessed right. The first story is none other than that of Meng Jiangnu searching for her husband at the Great Wall. Her story became a legend and spread far and wide through textbooks, folk songs and traditional operas in China. Following that was an incident that happened during the Western Zhou Dynasty in the 8th century BC (771 BC). I guess no wall can keep foolishness at bay.

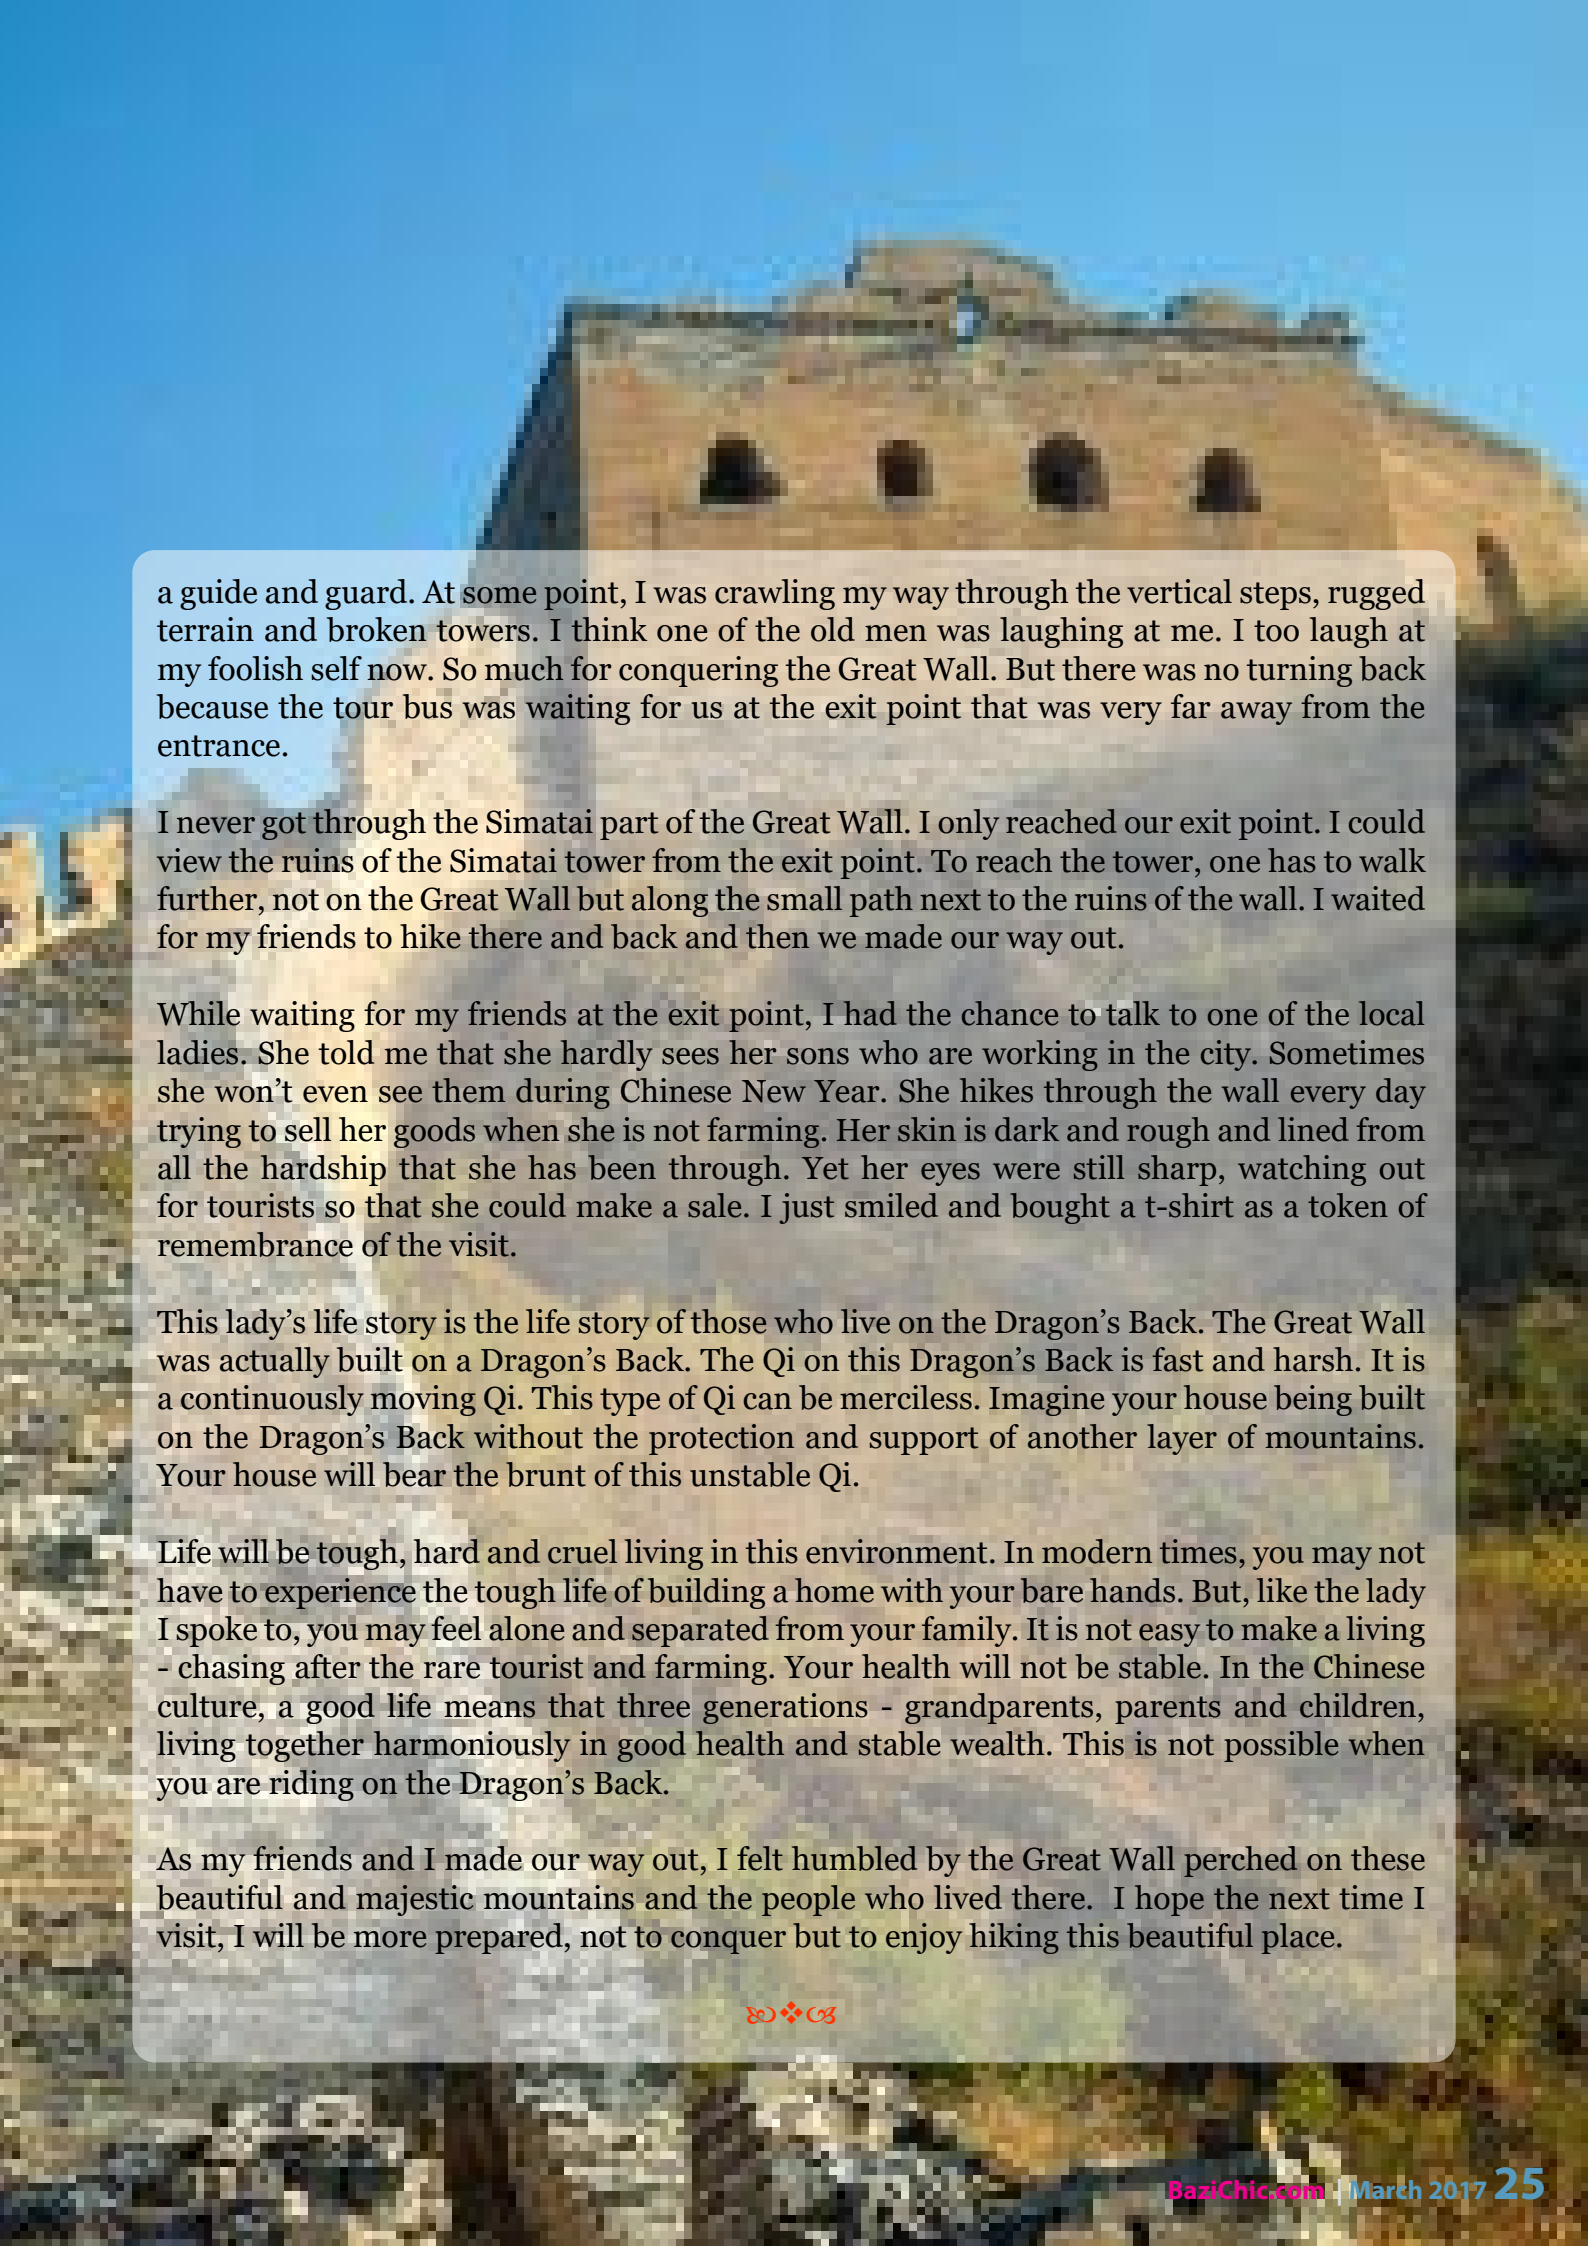

The Great Wall of China brings to mind Emperor Qin Shi Huang, who was credited with building the wall. However, it was the state of Chu that first built the wall. It was during the Qin Dynasty, that Emperor Qin Shi Huang, having unified six states, joined up all the walls to fend off invasions from northern invaders. This was how the Great Wall came into being. Some of the walls built during the earlier dynasties have mostly come to ruin. Subsequent dynasties continued to build, extend, repair and modify the wall. The longest section was built during the Han Dynasty (206BC-220BC). What is left of the Great Wall now was actually repaired and built during the Ming Dynasty. It is also now being repaired and reconstructed by the current Chinese Government.

In September 2016, my friends and I decided to conquer the Great Wall. Ok... maybe just a small part of the Great Wall. Our plan was to hike from the Jinshanling Great Wall to the Simatai Great Wall. The distance of the hike was about 7-8 kilometres. We skipped a few kilometres by taking the cable car up. We started off in high spirits. This part of the Great Wall offers stunning scenery without being overrun with tourists. Not many tour groups visit this part of the wall so we had the Great Wall to ourselves. However, some of the local ladies, sensing a business opportunity, walked with us as they tried to tempt us with their goods and drinks.

Less than halfway through the journey, I began to feel very tired. My legs felt wobbly. By now all the locals were gone. At every tower, there was an old man sitting around acting as a guide and guard. At some point, I was crawling my way through the vertical steps, rugged terrain and broken towers. I think one of the old men was laughing at me. I too laugh at my foolish self now. So much for conquering the Great Wall. But there was no turning back because the tour bus was waiting for us at the exit point that was very far away from the entrance.

I never got through the Simatai part of the Great Wall. I only reached our exit point. I could view the ruins of the Simatai tower from the exit point. To reach the tower, one has to walk further, not on the Great Wall but along the small path next to the ruins of the wall. I waited for my friends to hike there and back and then we made our way out.

While waiting for my friends at the exit point, I had the chance to talk to one of the local ladies. She told me that she hardly sees her sons who are working in the city. Sometimes she won't even see them during Chinese New Year. She hikes through the wall every day trying to sell her goods when she is not farming. Her skin is dark and rough and lined from all the hardship that she has been through. Yet her eyes were still sharp, watching out for tourists so that she could make a sale. I just smiled and bought a t-shirt as a token of remembrance of the visit.

This lady's life story is the life story of those who live on the Dragon's Back. The Great Wall was actually built on a Dragon's Back. The Qi on this Dragon's Back is fast and harsh. It is a continuously moving Qi. This type of Qi can be merciless. Imagine your house being built on the Dragon's Back without the protection and support of another layer of mountains. Your house will bear the brunt of this unstable Qi.

Life will be tough, hard and cruel living in this environment. In modern times, you may not have to experience the tough life of building a home with your bare hands. But, like the lady I spoke to, you may feel alone and separated from your family. It is not easy to make a living - chasing after the rare tourist and farming. Your health will not be stable. In the Chinese culture, a good life means that three generations - grandparents, parents and children, living together harmoniously in good health and stable wealth. This is not possible when you are riding on the Dragon's Back.

As my friends and I made our way out, I felt humbled by the Great Wall perched on these beautiful and majestic mountains and the people who lived there. I hope the next time I visit, I will be more prepared, not to conquer but to enjoy hiking this beautiful place.

FINDING THE 十神 TEN GODS (THE COMPANION ELEMENT)

There are altogether 10 types of Day Masters arising from the two different polarities (Yin and Yang) of the Five Elements. The Ten Gods are derived from the interaction of the Five Elements with the Day Master. Each of these Five Elements can support, destroy, control, or exhaust one another.

In this issue's Bazi 101, we want to explore the Companion element. The Companion element is the same element as the Day Master. For example, for the Wood Day Master, the Companion element is the Wood element. The Companion element is further divided into Yin and Yang polarities, resulting in the Friend and Rob Wealth stars. The Friend star has the same polarity as the Day Master. The Rob Wealth star is of the opposite polarity to the Day Master. Table 1 shows the Day Masters' Companion elements.

FACE READING

WHAT YOUR HAIR SAYS ABOUT YOU

People always say, “A woman’s hair is her crowning glory.” This applies not only to women, though. The condition of a person’s hair may be an indicator of a person’s success and good luck. More importantly, the hair reflects a person’s health.

Healthy hair growth, and the resulting thick and lustrous hair, literally indicates a body that is smiling from the inside out. It indicates great health. Hair loss, thinning hair, and dull and weak hair may be a sign of internal imbalances and poor general health. Chinese Traditional Medicine practitioners have long known that the hair is a direct reflection of the condition of our blood, liver and kidneys.

In Face Reading, the hair can tell a lot about a person’s determination and success. Hair is classified under the Wood Element. Healthy, lustrous hair indicates progress, passion and determination to overcome obstacles. Hence, healthy hair indicates good luck and success. On the flip side, weak and dull hair indicates a person’s lack of purpose, motivation and drive.

In our previous face reading article, we talked about the eyebrows and personality. The characteristics of your hair add another layer of information to your personality. Most people fall into five basic categories of hair. These refer to your natural hair texture and not the result of a perm or cut.

No 1: Straight hair

Straight hair represents the Wood Element. It reflects a straightforward personality. Straight-haired people come across as happy. They can speedily assess most situations and spring into action. This hair type best fits the Fire-shaped face. If combined with a Metal-shaped face, the person may appear dull and unmotivated.

No 2: Wavy hair

Natural wavy hair represents the Water Element. This hair type indicates an artistic personality. They are better with concepts than with action. They also come across as highly intelligent and creative. This hair type best fits the Metal or Wood-shaped face. Combined with a Fire-shaped face, the person may appear erratic and quick-tempered.

No 3: Curly hair

Curly hair represents the Metal Element. If the hair also appears frizzy, it may also represent the Fire Element. Curly-haired people are considered the hardest type of people to get along with because of their stubborn personality. They are good at system design and are constantly striving for perfection. This hair type best fits the Earth or Water-shaped face. If combined with the Wood-shaped face, the person may appear messy and absent-minded.

No 4: Frizzy hair

Frizzy hair represents the Fire Element. It often comes across as brittle, dry and fragile. This may indicate digestive and kidney problems because of the strong Fire Element. It is possible for frizzy hair to look healthy and beautiful. Frizzy-haired people can come across as the wild party type. They tend to be adventurous, brave and dislike restrictions of any sorts. They are generous and loving people, but also short-tempered. This hair type best fits the Earth or Wood-shaped face. If combined with the Metal-shaped face, it may indicate a nasty personality.

No 5: Thick flat hair

Thick voluminous hair represents the Earth Element. It can usually be recognized from a straight hairline on the forehead. Thick-haired people are natural peacemakers. They use their charm to bring people together and to diffuse difficult situations. This hair type best fits the Fire or Metal-shaped face. If combined with the Water-shaped face, the person may seem rough and uncultured.

Choose the hair type that most resembles your own and enjoy reading about yourself. Also, if you need a refresher on face shapes please check out the following back issues of Bazichic Digital Magazine:- September 2014, December 2014, March 2015, June 2015 and September 2015.

LAW OF ATTRACTION
法奇門 FA QI MEN

HOW TO MAKE YOUR WISHES COME TRUE FASTER

A wish is nothing more than a thought that can become reality. Researchers have discovered that thoughts behave like a magnet - they can attract and transform energy in the outside world. There are many ways to enhance the power of your wishes using Fa Qi Men. To have your wishes fulfilled, consider these simple factors besides staying in the alpha state.

1. Vibrant Qi

Qi embraces all manifestations of energy, from the most material aspects of energy such as the earth beneath your feet, your computer, and flesh and blood to the most immaterial aspects, such as light, movement, heat, nerve impulses, thoughts, and emotions. Life, it is said in the Chinese medical classics, is a gathering of Qi. Hence, we too embody Qi. However, the most vibrant Qi is located externally in the natural environment, especially in places with good Feng Shui. This Qi carries and connects your wish to the Universe. Hence, making your wishes in a quiet environment outside your home will help you to fulfil your wish faster.

2. Full Moon Energy

It is said that the full moon pours down a tremendous amount of energy from the universe. In most religions or spiritual studies, the full moon is a time of positive opportunity. To tap into this energy you must remain in a calm state of mind, which in fact is the same as staying in an alpha state. Hence, making wishes using Fa Qi Men on a full moon can make your wish come true faster.

3. Location

If making wishes in a quiet environment outside your home is not an option easily available to you, you can do it inside your home too. There are three locations that will enhance the fulfilment of wishes.

- a) The Life Door location has the most vibrant energy inside your home. Each house has its own Life Door according to the Feng Shui Qi Men Map based on the direction and location of the door. This information may not be easily available to you. Still you can apply the Life Door location from the Monthly Qi Men Map onto your home to find the most vibrant energy location each month. Refer to the Monthly Universal Map on page 55 for the Life Door location.
- b). The Open Door location is another location containing positive energy offering new opportunities. This location enhances your wishes. Refer to the Monthly Universal Map on page 55 for the Open Door location.
- c) The Rest Door location offers harmonious energy. It brings Noble people into your life. Refer to the Monthly Universal Map on page 55 for the Rest Door location.

4. Charms

Create your own lucky charm by imprinting your wishes on it. Read our December 2016 issue to find out how you can create your own lucky charms in 2017.

There is a force in the Universe,
which, if we permit it,
will flow through us
and produce miraculous results.

Question

Angie

Next year my front door will be in the Illness Star sector, Flying Star#2. What should I do? Restroom in star 7, bedroom 9, kitchen 8, balcony I never use in 4.

Date of Birth: Nil

Time of Birth: Nil

Gender: Female

Just Ask

Hi Ms Angie,

You can check out our Feng Shui Cures article on page 15 to resolve the Illness Star#2 issue at your front door. You can safely use your bedroom, kitchen and balcony areas. As for the restroom, it will not have any adverse effects on you since you are not likely to spend more than 8 hours in your restroom.

Precaution is better than

歲破 Year Breaker

大耗 Great Consumer

災煞 Calamity Sha

關千 Obstacle

卒暴 Great Assembly

Overall, this month not only promises abundant financial opportunities but also challenges. To grab these opportunities, you must be prepared to make changes. The Month Emptiness star encourages one to be humble and to work for your goal quietly behind the scenes. The Month Emptiness star also brings with it the power of creative thinking and intuition. This is a star of dreams and transformation. However, given that this is the only auspicious star appearing alongside the Rabbit sign, one may want to aim for more realistic goals this Rabbit month.

The Rabbit zodiac also brings along many inauspicious stars such as the Year Breaker, Great Consumer, Calamity Sha, Obstacle and Great Assembly stars. This combination of stars indicates that one will gain through someone else's losses. One will need to take greater risk to gain more financially.

Scandal, gossip and fraud are lurking behind a glamorous front. Tread carefully. Do not be blinded by greed.

If the month's Qi is unfavourable to you, especially those who have the Rabbit or Rooster in the Bazi chart, be careful when handling electrical appliances.

This month's energy does not favour those who have the following zodiacs: Rooster and Dragon.

This month's energy favours those who have the following zodiacs: Dog, Pig and Goat. These zodiacs may find themselves making gains from the chaotic environment.

Wood Day Masters (甲 Jia Yang Wood and 乙 Yi Yin Wood), will find themselves easily provoked and short-tempered. You will tend to misplace your things as well. Take a rest and some time off to re-tune your emotions.

Fire Day Masters (丙 Bing Yang Fire and 丁 Ding Yin Fire), put in more effort. There are plenty of wealth opportunities and you will be rewarded for your hard work.

Earth Day Masters (戊 Wu Yang Earth and 己 Ji Yin Earth), silence is golden for you. Do not get yourself into any form of arguments, gossip or criticism.

Metal Day Masters (庚 Geng Yang Metal and 辛 Xin Yin Metal), there are abundant wealth opportunities. Be prepared to fight for it!

Water Day Masters (壬 Ren Yang Water and 癸 Gui Yin Water), you will enjoy a peaceful month. Take up a hobby or do something fun. The chaotic environment will have no impact on you.

Tiger

The Tiger sign will find themselves run-down and low on energy. It will be hard to take in more tasks. You can only do so much this month. Say “No” if you find that people are trying to pass you more work. Avoid getting entangled in relationship triangles. Stay away from gossip.

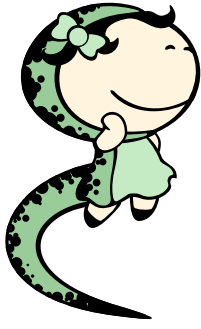

Rabbit

This may be a chaotic month for the Rabbit sign. Plan your schedule carefully. Do not take things for granted. Do this and you will find that everything will work out in the end.

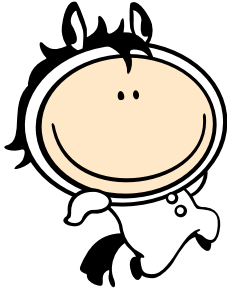

Dragon

Your immune system is weak. Stay healthy with a good diet and frequent exercise. Do not travel to countries experiencing health pandemics. Be a law-abiding citizen. Do not break even small rules.

Snake

Snake people have a busy schedule ahead. Manage your time wisely. There is plenty of work to get done, and you will have little time for fun or your loved ones. Do not feel discouraged as your hard work will be rewarded.

Horse

Horse people will enjoy a stable and harmonious month. It will be a good month to put your ambitious project to work. Take on more challenges at work. You will be rewarded. Singles who have someone in mind may attempt to make their feelings known. Romance luck favours you.

Goat

Goat people will experience ups and downs in March. Do not be upset with obstacles along the way. You will find more opportunities as you overcome each challenge.

Monkey

Monkey people will see their overall luck improve this month. Everything will go their way. Do not become indolent. Work hard and with this good luck, you will achieve more.

Rooster

The Rooster people will experience a busy month. You need to plan ahead to ensure that everything will run smoothly. Avoid taking part in dangerous sports. Make important decisions in a better month when you will have time to think things through properly.

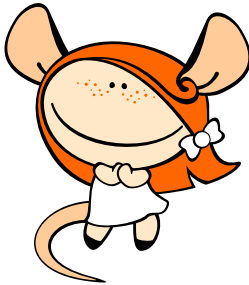

Dog

This is a tricky month for the Dog sign. Dog people must continue to stay cool, calm, and collected in the face of problems. Be confident and approach problems with a “can-do” attitude. Noble people will come around to offer you a hand if you show a positive attitude.

Pig

A lucky star is shining on the Pig sign. Everything you undertake this month will go smoothly. However, your health is rather fragile. You will be prone to bacterial infection. Keep your living environment clean. Avoid eating street food for the time being.

Rat

The Rat needs to stay calm and patient this month. Petty people abound to badmouth and gossip about you. Know that they can’t really harm you. Their actions only reflect their jealousy of your good fortune.

Ox

You will feel tired due to the heavy workload this month. Plan your schedule properly. Make sure you have enough time to rest. Do not feel disheartened as your hard work will be rewarded.

Tiger

Family and domestic problems may keep you occupied this month. Deal with it one at a time. Don't let these problems affect your good mood. Make an effort to communicate clearly to avoid misunderstandings and arguments.

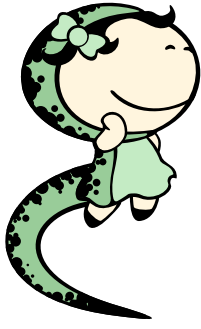

Rabbit

Rabbits can look forward to some wealth opportunities. However, Rabbit luck is such that excessive wealth gains will adversely affect your health. Your motto this month is "Enough." Do not be greedy.

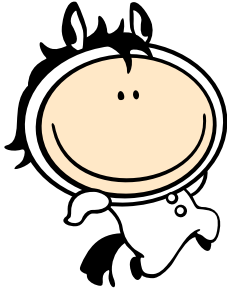

Dragon

You want to do and try all things. But you may be taking on more than you can handle. Do things one at a time. Enjoy the process. There is no need to rush. Success is definitely waiting for you.

Snake

Snakes can look forward to many happy events this month. Friends and family will be there to cheer you up. They will be supportive of your goals and ready to offer their help. Do not take them for granted.

Horse

You will tend to be absent minded and make mistakes easily. Be alert and be mindful to avoid problems cropping up. Overall, this is still a good month for the Horse sign. Noble people are around to offer you help.

Goat

Goats will be infused with positive energy this month. You will feel upbeat. You will believe that you can achieve anything you set your mind on and it is true. Wealth opportunities abound. Grab every chance to boost your savings.

Monkey

Auspicious stars continue to shine on you. Take on more responsibility and challenges. Romance luck favours you too. Singles should put themselves out there to find love.

Rooster

Roosters can look forward to a peaceful month. Your work will become more stable and you will have more time to rest compared to the previous month. You will feel energetic and high-spirited too.

Dog

Put aside some extra money for unexpected expenses. There will be good news coming your way. Avoid dangerous activities. Do not go hiking alone in mountainous areas. Ensure that you have an experienced guide with you.

Pig

You will not see any major changes in your career but be assured that there will be some progress. Pig signs who want to look for a new job should postpone their plan to a better month. Put aside some money for investments. All in, this is a stable month.

Rat

Focus and concentrate on your work. Your ability and dedication will be noticed by your superiors. They will be more willing to offer you help and support. Your good work will be reflected in the annual performance review and you will be rewarded accordingly.

Ox

The Ox sign can look forward to a stable month. However, you may be moody due to the influence of inauspicious stars. Regular exercise and a hobby will help you resolve this.
